Res 51  Spring 2007

Anthropology and aesthetics

Contents

EDITORIAL
5 ROBERT HULLOT-KENTOR
In exactly what sense the culture industry no longer exists

13 MICHAEL W. MEISTER
Image iconopraxis and iconoplasty in South Asia

33 LADISLAV KESNER
Face as artifact in early Chinese art

57 YUKIO LIPPIT
Tawaraya Sôtatsu and the watery poetics of Japanese ink painting

77 WILLIAM A. HART
Afro-Portuguese echoes in the art of Upper Guinea

87 DAVID BERLINER
When the object of transmission is not an object: A West African example (Guinea-Conakry)

98 ANNA ANGUISSOLA
Retaining the function: Sacred copies in Greek and Roman art

108 BISSERA V. PENTCHEVA
Containers of power: Eunuchs and reliquaries in Byzantium

121 ELLIOT R. WOLFSON
Imago templi and the meeting of the two seas: Liturgical time-space and the feminine imaginary in zoharic Kabbalah

136 JAMES R. RUSSELL
The shrine beneath the waves

157 FRIEDRICH TEJA BACH
Filippo Brunelleschi and the Fat Woodcarver: The anthropological experiment of perspective and the paradigm of the picture as inlay

175 NOGA ARIKHA
Opaque humors, enlightened emotions, and the transparent mind
HAIM FINKELSTEIN
Screen and layered depth: Surrealist painting and the conceptualization of mental space

NUIT BANAI
Rayonnement and the readymade: Yves Klein and the end of painting

LECTURES, DOCUMENTS, AND DISCUSSIONS
LAURA T. ILEA
Hermeneutics of the artwork and the end of the age of nostalgia: From oblivion of being (Heidegger) to its enhancement (Gadamer)

REMO GUIDIERI
Commentary

FRANCESCO PELLIZZI
Some notes on sacrifice, shamanism, and the artifact

FRANCESCO CLEMENTE
A private rebel: Brice Marden